

My Arctic Adventure!

Clumsily, I hopped on the sledge because I was so excited to take an adventure to the Arctic. Suddenly, Blue whooshed in the sky. We were as high as an airplane because Blue was extremely strong. I felt like I was floating in the sky. When I looked at my fingers, they were absolutely numb, although I was wearing gloves.

Calling for its mother, I heard a scared husky howling into the sky. When I was stepping in the snow, I heard the crunching noise under my feet as cold as an ice cube. Like the wind, I heard the huskies howling.

As cold as an ice cube, the wind blew the snow on my eye lashes. When I landed awkwardly, I heard my foot stepping on a pile of conkers which belonged to a squirrel.

I felt butterflies flying around in my tummy as soon as we landed into a bush of snow.
