

My Magical Husky Ride to the Arctic!

When I got on the wooden sleigh, suddenly it started moving and I could feel the breezy and icy wind. Above me, I saw shining and shimmering moonlight and beneath me, I saw soft snow that was as fluffy as a cloud. As we whooshed quickly, freezing snowflakes went on my face and they were stinging my cheeks!

Beneath me, I could hear plinking ice and howling huskies. Over the treetops, glassy icicles were chiming when they hit each other. On the sleigh, I could hear jingling bells on the husky dog's neck.

Above my head, I could see the Northern Lights dancing and twirling like ballerinas. Beneath me, I could see beautiful pine trees wearing a white fluffy coat of snow. The Northern Lights shone beautifully like Elsa's ice palace when she sang "Let it go!".

I smelled a perfumed pine cone that tickled my nose and minty fresh cold air. I could smell the cold fresh air in the North Pole and sweat from my body.

When we landed, my tummy dipped and flipped. I was starting to feel dizzy because of that crash landing. That ride was super fast and it was whooshing quickly like a cheetah running.
